Are you an early music ensemble (minimum 2 members)?
Are all your members aged between 17 and 35?
Do you focus on historically informed performance practice, playing repertory from any period from the Middle Ages to the 19th century on period instruments?
Can you be available from 10 to 13 July 2013 at the National Centre for Early Music in York?

The competition provides a major boost to young professional careers, offering opportunities to the winners for performances, recording and broadcasting. In 2013 the Master of Ceremonies will be baritone Richard Jackson, who is joined by an international panel of judges including some of the world’s finest early music specialists.

Previous competition winners include:

I Fagiolini
Savādi
Florilegium
Mhairi Lawson
